Frequently Asked Questions

We don't have a budget for Executive Search How can we afford HCS?

HCS clients reduce their lost revenue, lost productivity, overtime pay and enumerable turnover costs by allowing HCS to quickly fill their open positions with the most suitable candidates.

What does CP stand for and What does HCS do differently in the interview process?

CP stands for Candidate Presentation. HCS presents candidates to the employer via a document called a Candidate Presentation. The CP is designed to take the guesswork away from the client and provide answers to the questions apparent within any resume.

The CP includes interview and screening notes from two or more HCS recruiters. Call now and we will email or fax to you a sample CP today!

How does the OP create a benefit for the Client and the Candidate?

Management candidates.

5. HCS assigns a team of recruiters to each assignment, ensuring access to the entire candidate pool.
6. HCS successfully completes recruiting assignments faster than employers can do on their own.
7. HCS only presents candidates who are well screened for each particular position.
8. HCS surfaces and presents candidates to employers in a confidential manner.
9. HCS candidates pass a minimum of two interviews before being presented to the employer.
10. HCS is the only Executive Search Firm endorsed by the Hotel Recruiting Association of America (HRAOA).

OP stands for Opportunity Profile. The OP clarifies what the employer is looking for in a candidate. It is selectively used as a marketing tool to attract superior candidates. Typically the Employer sends HCS new recruiting assignments in a one sentence Email containing the title, property, and name of the hiring manager. HCS then researches the Company, Property, and Position and drafts a three-page document called an Opportunity Profile. HCS reviews the OP with the Hiring Manager who invests about ten to fifteen minutes editing and approving the OP. The approved OP is utilized for screening candidates and on non-confidential assignments the OP is shared with candidates as a marketing tool. The OP is a true time saver for the Client, as only candidates who match the critical Candidate requirements section of the OP are presented. Candidates regularly comment on how impressed they are with the comprehensiveness of this document and often it is the reason that they consider the opportunity seriously.
